We are glad to announce the third edition of the European Summer School on Social Economics (ESSE) which will be held from July 8th to 13th 2013 at the University Residential Centre of Bertinoro (FC), Italy. This third edition is organized by the Department of Economics, University of Bologna, Forlì Campus in partnership with AICCON.

The first two editions received more than 70 applications of which 40 students - coming from all over the world - were selected to take part in this exciting training program on social economy.

The third edition of ESSE aims to widening the knowledge about social entrepreneurship, that refers to entrepreneurial activities whose primary purpose is to pursue social goals, produce goods and services in a highly entrepreneurial, innovative and efficient manner to generate benefits for society and citizens, use surpluses mainly to achieve social goals, and accomplish its mission through the way in which it involves workers, customers and stakeholders affected by its business activity; in an international and informal scientific environment facilitating the establishment of a community network among its participants.

We would really appreciate it if you could inform colleagues and other contacts and networks, you might think would be interested in participating or knowing more about ESSE and the opportunities it has to offer.

Scholarships covering part of the participation cost – not including travel expenses – will be available for students; information about how to apply are on the School website (www.esse.unibo.it), where you will find the Call for Application and the Application Form too.

If you would like to have more information about the School, feel free to contact the Staff (Roberta and Sara) at ecofo.esse@unibo.it.

Thank you for your kind attention.
